

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

MICHAEL E. MANN, PH.D.,

Plaintiff,

v.

NATIONAL REVIEW, INC., et al.,

Defendants.

Case No. 2012 CA 008263 B

Judge Alfred S. Irving, Jr.

Defendant Mark Steyn's Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law and Alternative Motion for Remittitur of Punitive Damages

H. Christopher Bartolomucci
D.C. Bar No. 453423
Justin A. Miller (pro hac vice)
SCHAERR | JAFFE LLP
1717 K Street NW, Suite 900
Washington, D.C. 20006
(202) 787-1060
cbartolomucci@schaerr-jaffe.com

Counsel for Defendant Mark Steyn

TABLE OF CONTENTS

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES	ii
BACKGROUND	1
JMOL STANDARDS	1
ARGUMENT	2
I. The $1,000,000 Punitive Damage Award Is Grossly Excessive, Unconstitutional, and Otherwise Unlawful.....	2
A. Steyn’s Post Does Not Show the Mental State Required for Punitive Damages.....	2
B. The Punitive Damage Award Violates D.C. Law and the First Amendment.....	3
C. The $1 Million Punitive Damage Award on $1 in Nominal Damages Is Grossly Excessive and Violates the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment.....	7
1. Degree of Reprehensibility	8
2. Ratio of punitive damages to actual harm	10
3. Legislatively authorized penalties and comparable verdicts	11
II. Steyn’s Post Is Shielded by the First Amendment From Defamation Liability.	14
III. Because the Jury Found That Steyn’s Second Statement Is Not Defamation, His First Statement Is Not Defamation Either.....	18
IV. By Itself, Steyn’s Third Statement Is Not Defamation.	19
V. Judgment Should Be Granted to Steyn on Actual Malice, Actual Injury, Truth, and Defamatory Meaning.	19
CONCLUSION.....	20

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

Cases	Page(s)
Afro-Am. Publ’g Co. v. Jaffe , 366 F.2d 649 (D.C. Cir. 1966)	3, 4, 5
Ayala v. Washington , 679 A.2d 1057 (D.C. 1996)	12
Banks v. Hoffman , 301 A.3d 685 (D.C. 2023)	16
BMW of N. Am., Inc. v. Gore , 517 U.S. 559 (1996)	passim
Bose Corp. v. Consumers Union of U.S., Inc. , 466 U.S. 485 (1984)	3
CEI v. Mann , 150 A.3d 1213 (D.C. 2016)	9, 15, 16, 19
Celle v. Filipino Rep. Enters. Inc. , 209 F.3d 163 (2d Cir. 2000)	13
Daka, Inc. v. McCrae , 839 A.2d 682 (D.C. 2003)	7, 10, 11, 14
DeSavitch v. Patterson , 159 F.2d 15 (D.C. Cir. 1946)	19
Eramo v. Rolling Stone, LLC , 209 F. Supp. 3d 862 (W.D. Va. 2016)	16
Exxon Shipping Co. v. Baker , 554 U.S. 471 (2008)	7
Farah v. Esquire Mag. , 736 F.3d 528 (D.C. Cir. 2013)	17
Feld v. Feld , 783 F. Supp. 2d 76 (D.D.C. 2011)	4
Fischer v. OBG Cameron Banfill LLP , No. 08 Civ. 7707, 2010 WL 3733882 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 24, 2010)	13
Gertz v. Robert Welch, Inc. , 418 U.S. 323 (1974)	16
Howard University v. Wilkins , 22 A.3d 774 (D.C. 2011)	12, 13
Jonathan Woodner Co. v. Breeden , 665 A.2d 929 (D.C. 1995)	6
Linn v. United Plant Guard Workers of Am. , 383 U.S. 53 (1966)	3, 4
Lothschuetz v. Carpenter , 898 F.2d 1200 (6th Cir. 1990)	3
Maxwell v. Gallagher , 709 A.2d 100 (D.C. 1998)	4, 12
Modern Mgmt. Co. v. Wilson , 997 A.2d 37 (D.C. 2010)	7, 12
N.Y. Times Co. v. Sullivan , 376 U.S. 254 (1964)	6, 17
Nat’l Rev., Inc. v. Mann , 140 S. Ct. 344 (2019)	9, 14, 15, 16
Ollman v. Evans , 750 F.2d 970 (D.C. Cir. 1984)	17
Peter Scalamandre & Sons, Inc. v. Kaufman , 113 F.3d 556 (5th Cir. 1997)	3, 4

Phillips v. Evening Star Newspaper Co. , 424 A.2d 78 (D.C. 1980).....	passim
Raymond v. United States , 25 App. D.C. 555 (1905)	11
Sere v. Grp. Hospitalization, Inc. , 443 A.2d 33 (D.C. 1982)	3
State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell , 538 U.S. 408 (2003)	passim
Strass v. Kaiser Found. Health Plan of Mid-Atl. , 744 A.2d 1000 (D.C. 2000).....	1, 19
TXO Prod. Corp v. All. Res. Corp. , 509 U.S. 443 (1993).....	8, 10
Unidisco, Inc. v. Schattner , No. B-80-2617, 1986 WL 84363 (D. Md. Aug. 4, 1986)	5
Webber v. Dash , 607 F. Supp. 3d 407 (S.D.N.Y. 2022).....	13
Zanville v. Garza , 561 A.2d 1000 (D.C. 1989).....	5
Rule
Civ. R. 50	1

Pursuant to D.C. Superior Court Civil Rules 50(b) and 60, the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment, and this Court’s inherent power, Defendant Mark Steyn hereby renews his motion for judgment as a matter of law and also moves in the alternative for remittitur of the grossly excessive and unconstitutional unlawful $1 million punitive damages award.

BACKGROUND

At trial, after Plaintiff rested his case in chief, Steyn made an oral motion for judgment as a matter of law (“JMOL”) and also filed a written motion for such relief. See Tr. 104–07 (1/31/24 AM); Tr. 9–15 (1/31/24 PM); Def. Mark Steyn’s Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law. After Defendants rested and Plaintiff waived any rebuttal case, Steyn renewed his JMOL motion. Tr. 12–14 (2/7/24 AM).¹

The jury awarded Plaintiff Michael Mann $1 in nominal damages from each Defendant. Tr. 7–8, 10 (2/8/24). This Court had instructed the jury if “you find that there are no proven damages resulting or that the damages are only speculative, then you may award nominal damages” “such as $1.” Tr. 68 (2/7/24 AM); see Jury Instructions at 9. As punitive damages, the jury awarded $1,000 from Defendant Rand Simberg and $1,000,000 from Steyn. Tr. 8, 11 (2/8/24).

JMOL STANDARDS

A renewed motion for judgment as a matter of law made post-trial is a vehicle for raising “legal questions” regarding the verdict. Civ. R. 50(b). A motion for JMOL must be granted where, as here, “the law and facts ... entitle the movant to ... judgment.” Civ. R. 50(a)(2). In addition, a “judgment notwithstanding the verdict should be granted when the evidence is so one-sided against the non-moving party that the moving party must prevail.” Strass v. Kaiser Found. Health Plan of Mid-Atl., 744 A.2d 1000, 1022 (D.C. 2000) (citation omitted).

¹ All “Tr.” citations herein are to the trial transcript unless noted otherwise.

ARGUMENT

I. The $1,000,000 Punitive Damage Award Is Grossly Excessive, Unconstitutional, and Otherwise Unlawful.

A. Steyn's Post Does Not Show the Mental State Required for Punitive Damages.

To recover punitive damages, it was Plaintiff's burden to prove by clear and convincing evidence that Steyn acted with actual malice and that his "conduct in publishing a defamatory statement showed maliciousness, spite, ill will, vengeance, or deliberate intent to harm the plaintiff." Tr. 75 (2/7/24 AM) (emphases added). Thus, Plaintiff had to prove that the writing at issue "showed" that Steyn possessed the requisite state of mind for punitive damages. Id. Plaintiff, however, did not come close to proving that, let alone by clear and convincing evidence.²

Steyn's post did not "show" maliciousness, spite, ill will, etc. The first statement the jury found to be defamation was Steyn's quotation of Rand Simberg's comparison of Michael Mann to Jerry Sandusky. But Steyn immediately distanced himself from the comparison, saying that although he (Simberg) "has a point," he (Steyn) was "[n]ot sure [he'd] have extended that metaphor all the way into the locker-room showers with quite the zeal Mr. Simberg does." The jury found that it was not defamation for Steyn to say that. Accordingly, Steyn's quotation of Simberg to set up his non-defamatory comment distancing himself from the Sandusky comparison cannot be deemed to show the malicious mental state necessary for punitive damages, as a matter of law.

Steyn's second statement the jury found to be defamation was that "Michael Mann was the man behind the fraudulent climate-gate 'hockey-stick' graph, the very ringmaster of the tree-ring circus." That statement, however, is light-hearted and figurative, not malicious. It features a circus metaphor and a play on words and evinces no spite or ill will. As a matter of law, this statement does not “show” the state of mind required for punitive damages. The mere use of the word “fraudulent” in connection with the hockey stick graph does not show the necessary mental state.

² Steyn's "Football and Hockey" post is attached as Addendum A to Steyn's new trial motion.

B. The Punitive Damage Award Violates D.C. Law and the First Amendment.

“It is well-recognized that punitive damages are not favored in the law” of the District of Columbia and so “they are available only in cases which present circumstances of extreme aggravation.” Sere v. Grp. Hospitalization, Inc., 443 A.2d 33, 37 (D.C. 1982). Punitive damages are especially problematic in defamation cases. The Supreme Court has noted “the propensity of juries to award excessive damages for defamation.” Linn v. United Plant Guard Workers of Am., 383 U.S. 53, 64 (1966). And excessive punitive damages in such cases involving the media chills speech protected by the First Amendment. Thus, “there is need to be concerned about the problem of excessive punitive damages, for this prospect portends a potentially more chilling restraint on appropriate latitude in news discussion than ensues from actions for compensatory damages.” Afro-Am. Publ’g Co. v. Jaffe, 366 F.2d 649, 662 (D.C. Cir. 1966) (en banc).

The punitive damages awarded here violate both D.C. law and the First Amendment, for multiple reasons. First, Steyn did not publish with actual malice and thus punitive damages may not be imposed. See Phillips v. Evening Star Newspaper Co., 424 A.2d 78, 90 (D.C. 1980). “Proving actual malice is a heavy burden.” Peter Scalamandre & Sons, Inc. v. Kaufman, 113 F.3d 556, 560 (5th Cir. 1997). And this Court has “an obligation to make an independent examination of the entire record to ensure the judgment is supported by clear and convincing evidence of actual malice.” Id. (citing Bose Corp. v. Consumers Union of U.S., Inc., 466 U.S. 485, 511 (1984)). The Mann trial made one thing clear as crystal: Steyn’s belief in the truth of his blog post is resolute. See Def. Mark Steyn’s Mot. for New Trial 11–16 (“New Trial Mot.”). No finding of actual malice may be made or sustained in this case. See Lothschuetz v. Carpenter, 898 F.2d 1200, 1206 (6th Cir. 1990) (“Carpenter’s subjective belief in the truth of his allegations was manifested at the trial of this matter, where he vehemently reiterated many of the accusations that he raised in papers filed with the FCC and correspondence sent to various politicians. Although Carpenter’s judgment and logic may not have been sound, we cannot conclude that he acted with actual malice.”); Peter Scalamandre, 113 F.3d at 560–64 (reversing and rendering judgment as to $4.5 million punitive award because plaintiff failed to prove actual malice by clear and convincing evidence).

Second, Plaintiff failed to present any non-speculative proof of damages; the jury awarded him $1 in nominal damages. See New Trial Mot. 16–18. And under both the First Amendment and D.C. law that means Plaintiff may not collect punitive damages. The Supreme Court has explained that, because of the First Amendment, a “defamed party must establish that he has suffered some sort of compensable harm as a prerequisite to the recovery of additional punitive damages.” Linn, 383 U.S. at 66; accord Afro-Am. Publ’g Co., 366 F.2d at 662 (recognizing that under Linn “proof of compensatory” damages is “a prerequisite for punitive damages”).

Under D.C. law, too, punitive damages may not be awarded to a “plaintiff whose legal right has been technically violated but has proved no real damage.” Maxwell v. Gallagher, 709 A.2d 100, 103 (D.C. 1998). In Maxwell, the appellees recovered a $1 nominal damage award and $75,000 in punitive damages. On appeal, the Court held that the “award of punitive damages was impermissible” due to the “failure of the appellees to present proof of loss.” Id. at 101, 103 . So too here. Plaintiff proved no real damage and had no proof of loss. If he had, the jury would have awarded not just nominal but compensatory damages. Since the jury did not award compensatory damages, Plaintiff cannot recover punitive damages. See Feld v. Feld, 783 F. Supp. 2d 76, 77 (D.D.C. 2011) (recognizing the Maxwell rule that “a mere ‘technical invasion’ of a plaintiff’s rights where no actual harm has occurred cannot support punitive damages”). “Under the law of the District of Columbia, one cannot receive punitive damages if only nominal damages are sought and awarded.” Unidisco, Inc. v. Schattner, No. B-80-2617, 1986 WL 84363, at *13 (D. Md. Aug. 4, 1986), aff’d in part & rev’d in part on other grounds, 824 F.2d 965 (Fed. Cir. 1987). In the District, ““a verdict assessing punitive damages can be returned only when there is also a verdict assessing compensatory or actual damages.”” Zanville v. Garza, 561 A.2d 1000, 1001 (D.C. 1989).

Third, under D.C. law, “[t]he court may set aside an award of punitive damages deemed to be excessive or against the weight of the evidence, or larger in amount than the court thinks it justly ought to be.” Afro-Am. Publ’g Co., 366 F.2d at 662 (footnotes omitted). In judging “whether punitive damages are excessive,” the court should consider (i) the counsel fees “actually” paid by the plaintiff; (ii) whether the defendant profited from his behavior; and (iii) “the basic purposes of deterrence and punishment.” Id. at 662–63. The court should also consider whether a punitive award is “excessively restrictive of freedom of press and comment.” Id. At 663.

Applying these factors, the $1 million punitive award violates D.C. law. Mann has paid nothing to his small army of attorneys from three law firms for 12 years of litigation, Tr. 61–62 (1/24/24 PM), and Steyn did not profit from his conduct. Deterrence and punishment are proper objectives of a punitive award, but to serve those ends an award must be proportionate to the harm caused. And here there was no harm: The jury awarded Plaintiff no compensatory damages but only $1 in nominal damages. A $1,000,000 punitive award is grossly disproportionate to the amount of harm (i.e., no harm) reflected in a $1 nominal award. The $1,000,000 award produces massive over-deterrence and is wildly excessive punishment for the harm (read: none) caused.

Under both D.C. law and the First Amendment, a significant, if not singularly dispositive, consideration here is that the $1,000,000 punitive award is “excessively restrictive of freedom of press and comment.” Afro-Am. Publ’g Co., 366 F.2d at 663. That freedom, protected by the First Amendment, is essential to our republic and our constitutional democracy. If members of the press can face crippling seven-figure punitive awards for writing on and expressing their views on controversial matters of great public importance—i.e., for doing their jobs—they will self-censor to our country’s great detriment. When such enormous punitive damage awards are imposed on commentators in libel cases, “the pall of fear and timidity imposed upon those who would give voice to public criticism is an atmosphere in which the First Amendment freedoms cannot survive.” N.Y. Times Co. v. Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254, 278 (1964).

Fourth, and finally, Plaintiff at trial painted a picture of Steyn as a wealthy elite but failed to offer any evidence of his net worth. This Court instructed the jury that, in considering punitive damages, it could consider “the net worth of the defendant at the time of trial.” Jury Instructions at 15. But Plaintiff did not introduce any evidence of Steyn’s net worth.

Punitive damages may not be “so great as to exceed the boundaries of punishment and lead to bankruptcy.” Jonathan Woodner Co. v. Breeden, 665 A.2d 929, 941 (D.C. 1995). Because “current net worth fairly depicts a tortfeasor’s ability to pay punitive damages,” id., “a plaintiff seeking to recover punitive damages based upon the wealth of the defendant ... must establish the defendant’s net worth at the time of trial.” Id. at 940. This rule applies when “a plaintiff invokes the defendant’s wealth.” Id. at 941 n.19, which Plaintiff did here.

At trial, Plaintiff’s counsel led the jury to believe that Steyn runs in elite circles and is a famous television personality. Plaintiff elicited from Steyn that he was a guest host for Sean Hannity on Fox News, for Rush Limbaugh, and for Tucker Carlson. Tr. 59–60 (1/23/24 AM). The jury heard that Steyn had a contract to write for National Review when he wrote the “Football and Hockey” post. Id. at 60. Plaintiff’s counsel asked Steyn if he was “aware that the National Review bills itself as being able to influence a highly-engaged audience from elected officials to opinion and business leaders.” Id. at 60–61. Counsel showed the jury a bio from the National Review’s website. Id. at 61–62. And the jury heard that Steyn is “an International Best-Selling Author” and “a Top 41 Recording Artist.” Id. at 62. This line of questioning required Plaintiff to prove Steyn’s net worth. Plaintiff put Steyn’s wealth “in issue sufficiently to require proof of net worth as the gauge of ability to pay.” Daka, 839 A.2d at 695. But no such proof came in.

C. The $1 Million Punitive Damage Award on $1 in Nominal Damages Is Grossly Excessive and Violates the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment.

In “response to outlier punitive-damage awards” the Supreme Court has “announced due process standards that every award must pass.” Exxon Shipping Co. v. Baker, 554 U.S. 471, 501 (2008) (citing State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell, 538 U.S. 408, 425 (2003); and BMW of N. Am., Inc. v. Gore, 517 U.S. 559, 574–75 (1996)). The Due Process Clause prohibits “grossly excessive or arbitrary” punitive damages awards. State Farm, 538 U.S. at 416; BMW, 517 U.S. at 562. “To the extent an award is grossly excessive, it furthers no legitimate purpose and constitutes an arbitrary deprivation of property.” State Farm, 538 U.S. at 417.

The D.C. Court of Appeals has applied this doctrine and explained that, because punitive damages “pose an acute danger of arbitrary deprivation of property,” “meaningful and adequate review of punitive damages awards” is “critical.” Modern Mgmt. Co. v. Wilson, 997 A.2d 37, 46, 48 (D.C. 2010). See, e.g., Daka, Inc. v. McCrae, 839 A.2d 682, 699–700 (D.C. 2003) (vacating punitive award 26 times greater than compensatory award). Under the precedents of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals, the $1,000,000 punitive award in this case cannot stand.

The Supreme Court has stated that “the ratio between compensatory and punitive damages is ... a central feature in our due process analysis.” Exxon Shipping, 554 U.S. at 507. The Court has held that “few awards exceeding a single-digit ratio between punitive and compensatory damages, to a significant degree, will satisfy due process.” State Farm, 538 U.S. at 425. Here, the ratio between the punitive damages and nominal damages awarded by the jury is not a single-digit ratio, but an astonishing one million to one ratio (1,000,000:1).

The Supreme Court has “instructed courts reviewing punitive damages to consider three guideposts.” Id. at 418. The guideposts are “(1) the degree of reprehensibility of the defendant’s misconduct; (2) the disparity between the actual and potential harm suffered by the plaintiff and the punitive damages award; and (3) the difference between the punitive damages awarded by the jury and the civil penalties authorized or imposed in comparable cases.” Id.

1. Degree of Reprehensibility

“Perhaps the most important indicium of the reasonableness of a punitive damages award is the degree of reprehensibility of the defendant’s conduct.” BMW, 517 U.S. at 575. Non-violent acts are less serious than ones “‘marked by violence or the threat of violence,’” id. at 576, and the Court has placed “special emphasis on the principle that punitive damages may not be ‘grossly out of proportion to the severity of the offense.’” Id. (quoting TXO Prod. Corp v. All. Res. Corp., 509 U.S. 443, 453 (1993)). An assessment of the reprehensibility of the defendant’s conduct should consider whether:

the harm caused was physical as opposed to economic; the tortious conduct evinced an indifference to or a reckless disregard of the health or safety of others; the target of the conduct had financial vulnerability; the conduct involved repeated actions or was an isolated incident; and the harm was the result of intentional malice, trickery, or deceit, or mere accident.

State Farm, 538 U.S. at 419 (citing BMW, 517 U.S. at 576-77).

Here, “none of the aggravating factors associated with particularly reprehensible conduct is present.” BMW, 517 U.S. at 576. The harm, if any, that Steyn inflicted on Mann “was purely economic in nature” (a claimed loss of grant funding) and non-violent—Steyn’s conduct was speech, i.e., an internet blog post. Id. The post caused no harm to “the health and safety of others.” Id. Nor was Mann a “financially vulnerable” victim. Id. In 2012, he was a tenured and renowned professor with countless supporters and defenders. The jury found he had no compensable loss and awarded only nominal damages. With respect to the repeated-versus-isolated factor, Steyn, with ample justification, called the hockey stick graph “fraudulent” more than once, in writings since 2001. But the Court of Appeals expressly held that Steyn’s use of that word, standing alone, would not be defamation “as a matter of law.” CEI v. Mann, 150 A.3d 1213, 1247 (D.C. 2016). Steyn’s repost of Simberg’s comparison of Penn State’s investigation of Mann to its investigation of Sandusky was a topic Steyn wrote about only once, in the blog post at issue; it was “an isolated incident.” State Farm, 538 U.S. at 419. Finally, no competent evidence of Steyn’s subjective mental state was introduced to show “intentional malice, trickery, or deceit” on his part. Id. See New Trial Mot. 11–16 (no actual malice).

All in all, the relevant factors point strongly to the conclusion, as they did in BMW, that the punished conduct “was not sufficiently reprehensible to warrant imposition of a $[1] million exemplary damages award.” 517 U.S. at 580 (“$2 million” altered to $1 million). Here, the $1 million punishment is “grossly out of proportion to the severity of the offense.” Id. at 576. As this case shows, there can be a fine line between defamatory speech and speech fully protected by the First Amendment. Even if Steyn crossed that hazy line (he didn’t) while commenting on a matter of great public interest, controversy, and importance,³ his conduct (i.e., his speech) was not so reprehensible as to justify punishment at the million-dollar level. The First Amendment is too important to be repealed bit by bit by overwrought and random jury verdicts.

³ See Nat’l Rev., Inc. v. Mann, 140 S. Ct. 344, 344 (2019) (Alito, J., dissenting from cert denial) (“[T]his case presents questions that go to the very heart of the constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech and freedom of the press ... on one of the most important public issues of the day.”).

2. Ratio of punitive damages to actual harm

The second guidepost considers ratio of the punitive award “to the actual harm inflicted on the plaintiff.” BMW, 517 U.S. at 580. A “comparison between the compensatory award and the punitive award is significant” because “exemplary damages must bear a ‘reasonable relationship’ to compensatory damages.” Id. at 580–81. Where, as here, a massive punitive award is out of whack compared to the defendant’s actual damages, a due process violation is likely. In BMW, it was significant that “[t]he \$2 million in punitive damages awarded to Dr. Gore ... is 500 times the amount of his actual harm as determined by the jury.” Id. at 582. The Court set that award, with its 500:1 ratio, aside. In State Farm, which involved a much smaller ratio, 145:1, the Court stated that the case was “neither close nor difficult.” State Farm, 538 U.S. at 418. The D.C. Court of Appeals has called the 145:1 ratio “staggering.” Daka, 839 A.2d at 699. A ratio of 1,000,000:1 is 6,895 times more staggering than that. [$145 \times 6,895 = 999,775$].

The Court has explained that “few awards exceeding a single-digit ratio between punitive and compensatory damages, to a significant degree, will satisfy due process.” State Farm, 538 U.S. at 425. At the same time, “low awards of compensatory damages may properly support a higher ratio than high compensatory awards, if, for example, a particularly egregious act has resulted in only a small amount of economic damages.” BMW, 517 U.S. at 582.

Here, the ratio between punitive and other damages is a staggering 1,000,000:1. That ratio clearly exceeds a single-digit ratio to a significant degree. The Supreme Court has stated that “[w]hen the ratio is a breathtaking 500 to 1, ... the award must surely ‘raise a suspicious judicial eyebrow.’” BMW, 517 U.S. at 583 (quoting TXO, 509 U.S. at 481 (O’Connor, J., dissenting)). When the ratio is a mind-blowing 1,000,000 to 1, the judicial jaw must surely drop all the way to the ground. This case involves no “particularly egregious act.” Id. at 582. “The harm [if any] arose” from Steyn’s keyboard, “not from some physical assault or trauma; there were no physical injuries.” State Farm, 538 U.S. at 426. Since “there is a presumption against an award that has a 145-to-1 ratio,” id., that presumption is irrefutable when the ratio is 1,000,000-to-1.

Steyn submits that if any punitive award is appropriate here (none is), the jury’s award as to him, to pass constitutional muster, must be reduced to somewhere between $1,000 (the amount assessed against co-defendant Simberg) and $5,000, at the very most. Even that may be too generous because it would entail a highly questionable ratio of 1,000:1 or 5,000:1. Cf. Daka, 839 A.2d at 700-01 (“[A]n award in this case that multiplies the sum awarded for compensatory damages by more than a factor of five will bear a very heavy burden of justification.”).

3. Legislatively authorized penalties and comparable verdicts

The third guidepost compares “the punitive damages award and the civil or criminal penalties that could be imposed for comparable misconduct.” BMW, 517 U.S. at 583. “The existence of a criminal penalty does have bearing on the seriousness with which a State views the wrongful action.” State Farm, 538 U.S. at 428. Therefore, when reviewing a punitive award for excessiveness, a court “should accord substantial deference to legislative judgments concerning appropriate sanctions for the conduct at issue.” BMW, 517 U.S. at 583 (cleaned up).

The District of Columbia has no statute imposing civil penalties for libel and it never has. It once had a criminal libel statute that imposed a maximum fine of $1,000. See Raymond v. United States, 25 App. D.C. 555, 560 (1905). The punishment here is 1,000 times greater than the highest possible fine under the old statute. Even adjusted for inflation, $1,000 is just over $35,000 today, which is still “an amount dwarfed” by the punitive award at issue. State Farm, 538 U.S. at 428. Significantly, the repeal of the District’s criminal libel law reflects a decision that speech—an activity protected by the First Amendment—should not be punished with fines, even if the speech is libelous. “The existence of a criminal penalty” has a bearing here, id. (emphasis added), and so does the non-existence of such penalties. Substantial deference is owed to the legislative judgment to impose neither criminal nor civil fines for libel. See BMW, 517 U.S. at 583. The District of Columbia is no longer in speech police business.

In applying the third guidepost, the Court of Appeals has also looked to other D.C. jury “awards in comparable cases involving similar conduct.” Modern Mgmt., 997 A.3d at 60. The closest comparator would seem to be Phillips v. Evening Star Newspaper Co., 424 A.2d 78 (D.C. 1980), where the court held that no punitive damages could be imposed that case, where the jury awarded plaintiff $1 in nominal damages, because defendant lacked actual malice. Id. at 90.

In Ayala v. Washington, 679 A.2d 1057 (D.C. 1996), a defamation case, the jury awarded $1 in compensatory damages and $1 in punitive damages. Id. at 1070. The Court “remanded for further proceedings quantifying punitive damages” because “the trial court precluded Ayala from introducing evidence bearing on punitive damages, including evidence of his attorney fees and costs.” Id. at 1070–71. Here, Mann did not pay any attorney fees. Tr. 61–62 (1/24/24 PM).

Outside of the defamation context, in Maxwell v. Gallagher, 709 A.2d 100 (D.C. 1998), a judge (not a jury) awarded $1 in nominal damages and $75,000 in punitive damages on a breach of fiduciary duty claim in a case about a disputed stock transfer. Id. at 101. The Court of Appeals held that “because the trial judge expressly found that appellees had proven no actual damages, punitive damages could not be awarded.” Id. at 105.

Howard University v. Wilkins, 22 A.3d 774 (D.C. 2011), is not a defamation case and not a true comparator. Wilkins won at trial on a retaliatory discharge claim under the D.C. Human Rights Act. The trial court rejected her defamation claim on summary judgment, id. at 777, and that ruling was affirmed, id. at 785-87. The jury awarded Wilkins $1 in compensatory damages and $42,677 in punitive damages on her DCHRA claim. Id. at 777. The Court of Appeals affirmed the punitive award, holding it was not so excessive as to be unconstitutional. Id. at 785. The Court gave special emphasis to the fact that there is no cap on damages available under the federal 1866 and 1870 Civil Rights Acts on which the DCHRA was based. Id.

In sum, there is no precedent for a D.C. jury to award $1 million or more in punitive damages—or even a smaller, five- or six-figure award—in a defamation case where the jury awarded only $1 in compensatory or nominal damages. And there is no D.C. Court of Appeals decision upholding a five-, six-, or seven-figure punitive damage award in a defamation case, let alone such a case involving a mere $1 in compensatory or nominal damages.

When “a plaintiff claiming defamation received an award of only nominal damages but also received punitive damages” the “[c]ase law suggests that punitive damages in that context are quite modest.” Webber v. Dash, 607 F. Supp. 3d 407, 420 (S.D.N.Y. 2022) (citing Celle v. Filipino Rep. Enters. Inc., 209 F.3d 163, 191 (2d Cir. 2000) (upholding $1 nominal damage and remitting $15,000 punitive damages to $10,000 where one of three articles found to be defamatory was not defamatory); Fischer v. OBG Cameron Banfill LLP, No. 08 Civ. 7707, 2010 WL 3733882, at *3 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 24, 2010) (awarding $1 in nominal damages and $7,500 in punitive damages for defamatory email exchange and letter to the INS seeking plaintiff’s removal from the country)). Although Webber looked to awards in New York, jury verdicts and court-reviewed awards in the District of Columbia do not show a different pattern. Because Plaintiff recovered only nominal damages, any punitive award should be “quite modest” and it should not exceed four figures.

* * *

Applying the three guideposts identified by the Supreme Court as necessary to ensure due process in punitive damages, the $1,000,000 punitive award here on $1 in other damages is clearly excessive, unjust, unreasonable, and unconstitutional. It cannot stand. As a matter of law, no punitive award may be imposed here. Even if this Court disagrees with that conclusion, the award should be remitted based on the due process guideposts to the amount of $5,000 or less.⁴

II. Steyn’s Post Is Shielded by the First Amendment From Defamation Liability.

The First Amendment protects the right to criticize other speakers, including politicians, scientists, and politically-active scientists such as Michael Mann, especially on matters of great public importance. This case presents “questions that go to the very heart of the constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech and freedom of the press.” Nat’l Rev., Inc. v. Mann, 140 S. Ct. 344, 344 (2019) (Alito, J., dissenting from denial of certiorari) (“Mann”). Mann seems to think persons like Steyn have no right to criticize the work of scientists. The First Amendment disagrees. It guarantees Steyn’s right to form the view that the hockey stick graph was fraudulent and to share that view with those who wished to receive it. And it guarantees his right to quote another blogger and react to that blogger’s post without being held liable for anyone’s words but his own.

The First Amendment protects the right of citizens and the press to “speak freely and without fear about the most important issues of the day.” Id. at 346. The press cannot do so without being free to quote and describe what they will comment on. This case involves criticism of a scientist’s output at the heart of a heated political debate, but the jury’s verdict shuts down half of that debate. And that is what Plaintiff wanted. It was Mann’s purpose to “send[] a message that falsely attacking climate scientists is not protected speech.” Addendum D to New Trial Mot. When Steyn’s post is placed both in the context of the debate and that it was a blog post, the law is clear that his statements were protected speech.

⁴ “Unlike in the usual case where a remittitur is ordered, it will be unnecessary here” to give Plaintiff Mann “the option of accepting the remitted amount or a new trial on punitive damages.” Daka, 839 A.2d at 701.

Statements about the quality of scientific scholarship are not provably false. See CEI, 150 A.3d at 1247. And the First Amendment protects Steyn’s choice to offer “a pungently phrased expression of opinion regarding one of the most hotly debated issues of the day.” Mann, 140 S. Ct. at 347. Steyn’s statements were “couched as an expression of opinion on the quality of” the fraudulent hockey stick graph, which is “a work of scholarship relating to an issue of public concern.” Id. As such, his comments are protected speech.

This Court, not a jury, should have decided if Steyn’s statements were provably false. See Mann, 140 S. Ct. at 345–46. This issue has “serious implications” for the First Amendment. Id. at 346. Juries are especially unsuited for this gatekeeping function where, as here, the question of provable falsity is “highly technical” and “controversial.” Id. In fact, sitting an impartial jury at all presents special difficulties “[w]hen allegedly defamatory speech concerns a political or social issue that arouses intense feelings.” Id. This case reinforces the wisdom of the federal rule. The jury’s verdict shows its confusion about the provable falsity of the statements at issue. The jury somehow decided that Steyn was liable for reposting Simberg’s post but not for his commentary on that post—and that Steyn’s statement about the fraudulent graph was defamatory, although “such an ambiguous statement may not be presumed to necessarily convey a defamatory meaning.” CEI, 150 A.3d at 1247.

The First Amendment protects press commentary on news and others’ reactions to the news. Steyn’s comments about Penn State’s investigations into Mann and Jerry Sandusky were a response to “then-front-page-news” following the explosive findings in the Freeh Report. CEI, 150 A.3d at 1223–24. Steyn’s post quoted an article from Simberg and reacted to it. The jury found that Steyn’s comments in reaction were not defamatory, but that his quotation of Simberg was defamatory. The press cannot comment on newsworthy events without quoting what they are commenting on. Liability for republication of a statement depends on “whether there has been a change in the content of the defamatory statement or whether the publisher actively sought a new audience.” Banks v. Hoffman, 301 A.3d 685, 713 n.49 (D.C. 2023), vacated pending en banc review, 308 A.3d 201 (D.C. 2024) (per curiam) (mem.); see also Eramo v. Rolling Stone, LLC, 209 F. Supp. 3d 862, 880 (W.D. Va. 2016). Steyn’s change here was to distance himself from the quote. “The District of Columbia has long recognized and accorded the media the privilege of fair comment on matters of public interest.” Phillips, 424 A.2d at 88. The freedom of the press cannot exist if a member of the press cannot quote what he plans to discuss.

“[T]he freedom of speech and the press are most seriously implicated ... in cases involving disfavored speech on important political or social issues.” Mann, 140 S. Ct. at 347–48. Mann’s graph “has featured prominently in the politically charged debate about climate change,” CEI, 150 A.3d at 1220, which “has staked a place at the very center of this Nation’s public discourse” and is debated daily in all its aspects by “[p]oliticians, journalists, academics, and ordinary Americans.” Mann, 140 S. Ct. at 348. The press’ ability to discuss this issue is essential to our form of self-government. The verdict in this case will have a horrible “chilling effect” on discussing controversial political issues like climate change. CEI, 150 A.3d at 1242. Americans must be free to “engage[] in a debate of such public concern” with their own “expression of their ideas on the subject, even with pointed language.” Id. When it comes to “scientific or policy views, the question is not who is right; the First Amendment protects the expression of all ideas, good and bad.” Id. The Constitution does not recognize “a false idea.” Gertz v. Robert Welch, Inc., 418 U.S. 323, 339–40 (1974). Even a “pernicious an opinion ... depend[s] for its correction not on the conscience of judges and juries but on the competition of other ideas.” Id. Our nation relies on “a profound national commitment to the principle that debate on public issues should be uninhibited, robust, and wide-open, and that it may well include vehement, caustic, and sometimes unpleasantly sharp attacks on government and public officials.” N.Y. Times, 376 U.S. at 270. This verdict silences further debate. Steyn was dragged through ten years of litigation and told to pay $1,000,001 for quoting another author about Penn State’s investigation of Mann and for calling Mann’s graph fraudulent. That result is repugnant to the First Amendment.

The First Amendment forbids this Court from considering Steyn’s post in a vacuum. Steyn was writing at the center of a political maelstrom surrounding Mann, his graph, and Penn State. Indeed, “the existence of a political controversy is part of the total context that gives meaning to statements made about [Mann].” Ollman v. Evans, 750 F.2d 970, 1002 (D.C. Cir. 1984) (Bork, J., concurring). The surrounding context shows that Steyn’s comments were in the tenor of the debate and reflected rhetorical flourishes to emphasize his point that he sincerely believes Mann’s graph to be fraudulent and Penn State to be corrupt. “When we read charges and countercharges about a person in the midst of such controversy we read them as hyperbolic, as part of the combat, and not as factual allegations whose truth we may assume.” Id. As came out at trial, Steyn believes every word he wrote, and the rhetoric he chose to make that point is protected speech.

This Court should also consider the context of Steyn’s speech. “Context is critical” and it “includes not only the immediate context of the disputed statements, but also the type of publication, the genre of writing, and the publication’s history of similar works.” Farah v. Esquire Mag., 736 F.3d 528, 535 (D.C. Cir. 2013). Steyn posted on National Review’s online blog, The Corner. Its readers expected initial reactions to and biting commentary on breaking news. In the same way that a satirical article must be evaluated as satire, see id. at 536–37, a blog post must be evaluated as blogging. The jury’s verdict signals to bloggers and other writers that they may not criticize a scientist’s claims except in a peer-reviewed publication. Plaintiff’s argument that Steyn should be faulted for failing to consult with scientists or study certain government reports before posting is antithetical to the nature of blogging. The First Amendment protects Steyn's right to expression in the blogging context, and his post must be evaluated in that context. Because Steyn's blog post is entitled to protection as a blog, Steyn is entitled judgment as a matter of law.

III. Because the Jury Found That Steyn's Second Statement Is Not Defamation, His First Statement Is Not Defamation Either.

The jury found that Steyn's first and third statements were defamation but his second was not. Tr. 10 (2/8/24). Steyn's first statement quoted a line from Simberg's post: "'Mann could be said to be the Jerry Sandusky of climate science, except that instead of molesting children, he has molested and tortured data in the service of politicized science that could have dire economic consequences for the nation and planet.'" With his second statement Steyn immediately distanced himself from that line: "Not sure I'd have extended that metaphor all the way into the locker-room showers with quite the zeal Mr. Simberg does, but he has a point."

Because the jury found that Steyn's second statement is not defamation, the first one cannot be defamation either, as a matter of law. Steyn quoted a line from Simberg and then disassociated himself from it as written while adding a non-defamatory comment that Simberg "has a point." It cannot be defamation for Steyn, a member of the press, to quote another's writing accurately and identify its source and then offer non-defamatory criticism and comment about the writing. Steyn did not merely republish Simberg, and this case does not fall within the republication doctrine.

Quoting, criticizing, and commenting on Simberg, as Steyn did here, is also privileged. See Phillips, 424 A.2d at 88 ("The District of Columbia has long recognized and accorded the media the privilege of fair comment on matters of public interest."). Steyn was entitled to recite and opine on Simberg's line. "'To state accurately what a man has done, and then to say that in your opinion such conduct was disgraceful or dishonorable, is comment which may do no harm'" and so is privileged. Id. (quoting DeSavitch v. Patterson, 159 F.2d 15, 17 (D.C. Cir. 1946)). The First Amendment, too, protects the right of bloggers to quote and comment on other blogs.

Finally, Steyn hereby adopts Simberg’s arguments that his line about Jerry Sandusky was not defamation, and if Simberg prevails so must Steyn prevail as to his own first statement.

IV. By Itself, Steyn’s Third Statement Is Not Defamation.

Steyn’s third statement was that “Michael Mann was the man behind the fraudulent climate-change ‘hockey-stick’ graph, the very ringmaster of the tree ring circus.” If judgment as a matter of law is granted (as it should be) as to Steyn’s first statement, then his third statement, standing alone, cannot be a basis for defamation liability. Why? Because of CEI v. Mann. There, the Court of Appeals explained that Steyn’s third statement, by itself, is not defamatory as a matter of law:

We agree that if the use of “fraudulent” in this one sentence were the only arguably defamatory statement in Mr. Steyn’s article, we would have to conclude that it is insufficient as a matter of law, as such an ambiguous statement may not be presumed to necessarily carry a defamatory meaning. In such a case, the First Amendment tips the judicial balance in favor of speech.

150 A.3d at 1247 (citing Bose, 466 U.S. at 505). This Court is, of course, constrained to follow the Court of Appeals on this point.

V. Judgment Should Be Granted to Steyn on Actual Malice, Actual Injury, Truth, and Defamatory Meaning.

Steyn’s motion for a new trial argues that the verdict is contrary to the great weight of the evidence on the issues of actual malice, actual injury, truth, and defamatory meaning. See New Trial Mot. 11–20. Those arguments are incorporated here and require judgment as a matter of law. Although the standards under Rule 50 and Rule 59 are not identical, the somewhat higher Rule 50(b) standard is met here. See Strass, 744 A.2d at 1022 (“[J]udgment notwithstanding the verdict should be granted when the evidence is so one-sided against the non-moving party that the moving party must prevail.”). Under the Rule 50(b) standard, Steyn must prevail, particularly on the issues of actual malice and actual injury. The evidence is very clear (i) that Steyn believes, and always believed, that every word of his post is true; and (ii) that Mann was not injured at all by the post. See New Trial Mot. 11–18.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Steyn’s motion should be granted, and the Court should render judgment as a matter of law in his favor as to liability and punitive damages. Alternatively, the Court should grant a remittitur as to the excessive punitive damage award and reduce that award to no more than $5,000.

Dated: March 8, 2024

Respectfully submitted,

s/ H. Christopher Bartolomucci

H. Christopher Bartolomucci

D.C. Bar No. 453423

Justin A. Miller (pro hac vice)

SCHAERR | JAFFE LLP

1717 K Street NW, Suite 900

Washington, DC 20006

(202) 787-1060

cbartolomucci@schaerr-jaffe.com

Counsel for Defendant Mark Steyn

TRIAL TRANSCRIPT
1/23/24 AM
[EXCERPTED]

1 SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

2 CIVIL DIVISION

3x

4 MICHAEL E. MANN, Ph.D.,

5 PLAINTIFF,

MORNING SESSION

6 VS.

7 NATIONAL REVIEW, ET. AL.,

2012 CAB 8263

8 DEFENDANTS.

Tuesday, January 23, 2024

9x

10 The above-mentioned matter resumed for a trial
11 before the Honorable Alfred S. Irving, Jr., in Courtroom
12 518, commencing at approximately 9:33 a.m.

13 THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN
14 OFFICIAL COURT REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS
15 PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS TESTIMONY AND 16 PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

17 APPEARANCES:

18 On behalf of the Plaintiff:

19 John Williams, Esquire & Peter Fontaine, Esquire
20 Amorie Hummel, Esquire & Patrick Coyne, Esquire

21
22 On behalf of Defendant Steyn:

23 Mark Steyn, Pro Se

24 Juanita N. Price, RPR, FCRR

25 Official Court Reporter

(202) 879-1063

1 APPEARANCES CONT'D:

2 On behalf of Defendant Simberg:

3 Mark DeLaquil, Esquire

4 Victoria Weatherford, Esquire

5 & Renee Knudsen, Esquire

6 TABLE OF CONTENTS

7 WITNESSES

8 FOR THE PLAINTIFF: DIRECT CROSS REDIRECT RECROSS

9 MARK STEYN 6 71

10
11 FOR THE DEFENDANT:

12
13
14 EXHIBITS

15
16 FOR THE PLAINTIFF: ADMITTED

17 PLAINTIFF EXHIBITS 5, 6, 8 40

18 FOR THE DEFENDANT: ADMITTED

19
20 21
22 MISCELLANY PAGE

23
24 Proceedings.....3

25 Certificate Of The Reporter.....89

1 (Whereupon, bench conference concludes at this
2 time.)

3 THE COURT: All right. So the last question, and 4 response, and what you saw on the screen just before we
5 put on the husher, you are to, Members of the Jury,
6 disregard.

7 MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, may I?

8 THE COURT: No, no. That's the Court's ruling.

9 BY MR. WILLIAMS:

10 Q. All right. I want to go back to something that I 11 said in my opening statement that I think I got wrong, and 12 remember I said that you were a host on Fox News and you
13 corrected me?

14 A. Yes.

15 Q. Okay. I apologize for the error. You erre not a 16 Fox News Host, were you?

17 A. As I -- I think I said this last week at some 18 point.

19 Q. I'll clear it up, if you'd like.

20 A. Do you remember my clarification?

21 Q. Yeah, I just want to make sure we have it now
22 that you're on the stand. You see, I have to do that.

23 A. Of course, I'm under oath, and you don't trust me
24 when I'm not under oath. I'm happy. You can go ahead.

25 Q. Yes. You were a Guest Host on Fox News for Shawn

1 Hannity, right?

2 A. At one point. I think from 2006 onwards, yes.

3 Q. And before that, you were a Guest Host for Rush
4 Limbaugh, right?

5 A. I was a Guest Host for Rush Limbaugh until the 6 day he died.

7 Q. Yes. And you have also been a Guest host with 8 Tucker Carlson, right?

9 A. Yes.

10 Q. Now, the National Review, you, at one point had a 11 contract with the National Review to write for them,
12 right?

13 A. Yes.

14 Q. And that was back when you published Football and 15 Hockey?

16 A. Yes. At the time I wrote Football and Hockey I
17 was under contract to write for them.

18 Q. And when you were writing for them, you called 19 yourself the National Review's Happy Warrior; correct?

20 A. That's the title that a man called J. Naudlinger
21 (phonetic) came up with at National Review, and I agreed
22 to it.

23 Q. Okay. And when you were writing for the National 24 Review, were you aware that the National Review bills
25 itself as being able to influence a highly-engaged

1 audience from elected officials to opinion and business
2 leaders?

3 A. No.

4 Q. You wouldn't agree with that?

5 A. No, I wasn't aware of it. I wrote for it because 6 its founder William F. Buckley, Jr, asked me to. I didn't 7 know that.

8 Q. You didn't know -- well, would you agree that
9 they are able to influence a highly-engaged audience
10 including elected officials and opinion and business
11 leaders?

12 A. I have no idea what elected officials or business
13 leaders read that publication.

14 Q. Okay. Can I show you a copy of your -- I guess
15 you call it -- a bio from the website that used to be on 16 the National Review website?

17 May I show it to him?

18 THE COURT: Yes.

19 MR. WILLIAMS: Any objection?

20 MR. BARTOLOMUCCI: No objection.

21 MR. WILLIAMS: Can we put it up?

22 (Pause in Proceedings.)

23 BY MR. WILLIAMS:

24 Q. You see that, Mr. Steyn, you recognize that?

25 A. Yup.

1 Q. Where it says Mark Steyn is an International
2 Best-Selling Author, a Top 41 Recording Artist, and a
3 Leading Canadian Human rights Activist, right?

4 A. This is from National Review, isn't it?

5 Q. Yes, right.

6 A. I had no idea they'd published my Assistant's
7 personal email on that bio.

8 So, thanks for that, National Review.

9 Q. I'm sorry, this is your personal -- this is you,
10 not your personal assistant.

11 A. No. This -- this -- if you see it says
12 VictoriaMarkSteyn.com. I have no idea why National Review
13 chose to put her email up in public. I've never seen this 14 before.

15 Q. Oh, I see. I see. All right.

16 A. Yeah, I've never seen this before. I'm sorry,
17 I'm distracted by something.

18 Q. Okay. Well, Victoria didn't write this, you
19 wrote that, right?

20 A. No. I didn't -- I think they pulled this off --

21 THE COURT: You're not going to be able to move
22 the screen.

23 THE WITNESS: Oh, sorry. I think they -- as far
24 as -- we've talked about this before. I didn't know about 25 this bio. And I left National Review over a decade ago

1
2
3 CERTIFICATE OF THE REPORTER
4

5 I, JUANITA NOCK PRICE, REGISTERED PROFESSIONAL
6 REPORTER AND FEDERAL CERTIFIED REALTIME REPORTER, AN
7 OFFICIAL COURT REPORTER FOR THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE
8 DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, DO HEREBY CERTIFY THAT I TRANSCRIBED
9 FROM MACHINE SHORTHAND NOTES THE PROCEEDINGS HAD AND
10 TESTIMONY ADDUCED IN THE CASE OF MICHAEL E. MANN, Ph.D.
11 VERSUS MARK STEYN AND RAND SIMBERG, CIVIL DIVISION, CASE
12 NUMBER 2012 CAB 8263, IN SAID COURT ON THE 23RD DAY OF 13 JANUARY 2024.

14 I FURTHER CERTIFY THAT THE FOREGOING 89 PAGES
15 CONSTITUTE AN OFFICIAL TRANSCRIPT OF SAID PROCEEDINGS AS
16 TRANSCRIBED FROM MY MACHINE SHORTHAND NOTES AND REVIEWED
17 WITH MY BACKUP TAPES, TO THE BEST OF MY ABILITY.

18 IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I HAVE HERETO SUBSCRIBED MY
19 NAME, THIS 23RD DAY OF JANUARY, 2024.

20
21 RPR, FCRR
22

23 OFFICIAL COURT REPORTER
24
25

TRIAL TRANSCRIPT
1/24/24 PM
[EXCERPTED]

1 SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

2 CIVIL DIVISION

3x

4 MICHAEL E. MANN, Ph.D.,

5 PLAINTIFF,

AFTERNOON SESSION

6 VS.

7 NATIONAL REVIEW, ET. AL.,

2012 CAB 8263

8 DEFENDANTS.

Wednesday, January, 24, 2024

9x

10 The above-mentioned matter resumed for a trial
11 before the Honorable Alfred S. Irving, Jr., in Courtroom
12 518, commencing at approximately 2:26 p.m.

13 THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN
14 OFFICIAL COURT REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS
15 PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS TESTIMONY AND 16 PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

17 APPEARANCES:

18 On behalf of the Plaintiff:

19 John Williams, Esquire & Peter Fontaine, Esquire
20 Amorie Hummel, Esquire & Patrick Coyne, Esquire

21
22 On behalf of Defendant Steyn:

23 Mark Steyn, Pro Se

24 Juanita N. Price, RPR, FCRR

25 Official Court Reporter

(202) 879-1063

1 APPEARANCES CONT'D:

2 On behalf of Defendant Simberg:

3 Mark DeLaquil, Esquire

4 Victoria Weatherford, Esquire

5 & Renee Knudsen, Esquire

6 TABLE OF CONTENTS

7 WITNESSES

8 FOR THE PLAINTIFF: DIRECT CROSS REDIRECT RECROSS

9 DR. MICHAEL E. MANN 3

10 EXHIBITS

11 FOR THE DEFENDANT:

ADMITTED

12 EXHIBIT NUMBER 897 6

13 EXHIBIT NUMBER 898 9

14 EXHIBIT NUMBER 899 11

15 EXHIBIT NUMBER 580 16

16 EXHIBIT NUMBER 1102 20

17 EXHIBIT NUMBER 598 29

18 EXHIBIT NUMBER 603 31

19 EXHIBIT NUMBER 952 37

20 EXHIBIT NUMBER 1027 39

21 EXHIBIT NUMBER 685 45

22 EXHIBIT NUMBER 638 52

23 EXHIBIT NUMBER 517 74

24 EXHIBIT NUMBER 635 82

25 EXHIBIT NUMBER 858 87

1 page 24 number 37 the first caption: Complete text of 2 request for admission. Complete text of response.
3 Defendant's proposed statement.

4 MS. WEATHERFORD: Correct.

5 THE COURT: And that's what I'm reading?

6 MS. WEATHERFORD: The proposed statements, that's 7 right, Your Honor, for all of these.

8 MR. FONTAINE: He's already admitting that he's 9 sent these Tweets.

10 MS. WEATHERFORD: Again, none of these are Tweets
11 that we've shown him. We're trying to save time.

12 THE COURT: All right.

13 MS. WEATHERFORD: Okay.

14 THE COURT: We'll call in the jury.

15 (Pause in Proceedings.)

16 MS. WEATHERFORD: Oh, Your Honor, just so we 17 know, we've also solved the issue regarding the jury
18 instruction, and I've been informed by Mr. Williams that I
19 am -- I can go ahead and ask the questions regarding 20 attorney's fees.

21 THE COURT: All right.

22 MS. WEATHERFORD: Thank you.

23 MR. WILLIAMS: I think it's just one question,
24 right?

25 MS. WEATHERFORD: The questions are --

1 MR. WILLIAMS: Yes.

2 MS. WEATHERFORD: The questions are going to be
3 how much has he paid out of pocket, and confirming that he
4 does not have a debt that he has to pay, win or lose.

5 MR. WILLIAMS: I think that's fine. That's fine.
6 If those are two questions, that's fine.

7 MS. WEATHERFORD: Those two questions.

8 MR. WILLIAMS: Yup.

9 (Pause in Proceedings.)

10 THE COURT: With respect to 37, Defendant Simberg
11 is requesting that it be read. You have raised
12 objections, but, though, you are agreeing to its reading
13 with the caveat that later there might be context provided
14 by Dr. Mann?

15 MR. FONTAINE: For all of them, yeah. For every 16 one of these, Your Honor, yeah.

17 THE COURT: All right. All right.

18 (Pause in Proceedings.)

19 (Whereupon, the Jury enters the courtroom at this 20 time.)

21 THE COURT: You may be seated.

22 All right. So, Members of the Jury, before the 23 testimony is continuing, I am first going to read to you
24 some statements that have been determined to be admitted.
25 I'm first going to read you the jury instruction

1 the clerk.

2 MS. WEATHERFORD: That's what I figured.

3 THE COURT: Yes.

4 MS. WEATHERFORD: Okay.

5 THE COURT: We'll try not to lose it.

6 All right. See you tomorrow.

7 (Whereupon, hearing concluded.)

8 CERTIFICATE OF THE REPORTER

9 I, JUANITA NOCK PRICE, REGISTERED PROFESSIONAL
10 REPORTER AND FEDERAL CERTIFIED REALTIME REPORTER, AN
11 OFFICIAL COURT REPORTER FOR THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE
12 DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, DO HEREBY CERTIFY THAT I TRANSCRIBED
13 FROM MACHINE SHORTHAND NOTES THE PROCEEDINGS HAD AND
14 TESTIMONY ADDUCED IN THE CASE OF MICHAEL E. MANN, Ph.D.
15 VERSUS MARK STEYN AND RAND SIMBERG, CIVIL DIVISION, CASE
16 NUMBER 2012 CAB 8263, IN SAID COURT ON THE 24TH DAY OF
17 JANUARY 2024.

18 I FURTHER CERTIFY THAT THE FOREGOING 91 PAGES
19 CONSTITUTE AN OFFICIAL TRANSCRIPT OF SAID PROCEEDINGS AS
20 TRANSCRIBED FROM MY MACHINE SHORTHAND NOTES AND REVIEWED
21 WITH MY BACKUP TAPES, TO THE BEST OF MY ABILITY.

22 IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I HAVE HERETO SUBSCRIBED MY
23 NAME, THIS 24TH DAY OF JANUARY, 2024.

24 OFFICIAL COURT REPORTER

RPR, FCRR

TRIAL TRANSCRIPT
1/31/24 AM
[EXCERPTED]

1 SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

2 CIVIL DIVISION

3x

4 MICHAEL E. MANN, Ph.D.,

5 PLAINTIFF,

MORNING SESSION

6 VS.

7 NATIONAL REVIEW, ET. AL.,

2012 CAB 8263

8 DEFENDANTS.

Wednesday, January 31, 2024

9x

10 The above-mentioned matter resumed for a trial
11 before the Honorable Alfred S. Irving, Jr., in Courtroom
12 132, commencing at approximately 9:34 a.m.

13 THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN
14 OFFICIAL COURT REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS
15 PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS TESTIMONY AND 16 PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

17 APPEARANCES:

18 On behalf of the Plaintiff:

19 John Williams, Esquire & Peter Fontaine, Esquire
20 Amorie Hummel, Esquire & Patrick Coyne, Esquire
21

22 On behalf of Defendant Steyn:

23 Mark Steyn, Pro Se

24 Juanita N. Price, RPR, FCRR

25 Official Court Reporter

(202) 879-1063

1 APPEARANCES CONT'D:

2 On behalf of Defendant Simberg:

3 Mark DeLaquil, Esquire

4 Victoria Weatherford, Esquire

5 & Renee Knudsen, Esquire

6 TABLE OF CONTENTS

7 WITNESSES

8 FOR THE PLAINTIFF: DIRECT CROSS REDIRECT RECROSS

9 DR. JOHN ABRAHAM 37 4,19 24

10 64,84

11 EXHIBITS

12 ADMITTED

13 EXHIBIT NUMBER 76 39

14 EXHIBIT NUMBER 110 64

15 PLAINTIFF EXHIBIT 118 104

16 PLAINTIFF EXHIBIT 20A 104

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

1 MR. WILLIAMS: I believe we just put those
2 graphs, the blowup Hockey Stick Research Graphs, we're
3 not sure they were actually admitted into evidence yet.
4 They were shown to the Jury.

5 THE COURT: And those Exhibit Numbers are?

6 MR. DeLAQUIL: Could we just get those stickered
7 and just take a quick look at them first?

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 MR. DeLAQUIL: Thank you.

10 (Pause in Proceedings.)

11 THE COURT: All right. So that's exhibit.

12 MS. HUMMEL: 118.

13 THE COURT: 118.

14 MS. HUMMEL: Plaintiff's 118.

15 THE COURT: All right.

16 MR. WILLIAMS: Is it admitted?

17 THE COURT: Yes, yes, received.

18 (Whereupon, Plaintiff Exhibit Number 118 is 19 admitted into evidence at this time.)

20 MR. WILLIAMS: And then 20A is admitted, as well?

21 THE COURT: It's admitted, as well.

22 (Whereupon, Plaintiff Exhibit Number 20A is 23 admitted into evidence at this time.)

24 MR. WILLIAMS: And with that, Dr. Mann rests.

25 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

1 MR. DeLAQUIL: Your Honor, as you might expect,
2 we have a motion to make. I don't know if you want to
3 excuse the Jury.

4 THE COURT: We will excuse the jury.

5 All right. So we're now within the lunch hours.
6 So, we have a bit of business to tend to, and so we will
7 excuse you for lunch. And like yesterday, it's safe to be 8 back a little before 2 o'clock.

9 Enjoy your lunch.

10 (Whereupon, Jury exits the courtroom at this 11 time.)

12 THE COURT: All right. You may be seated.

13 (Pause in Proceedings.)

14 (Whereupon, bench conference is held on the 15 record at this time, as follows:)

16 THE COURT: I'm going to excuse everyone else in 17 the courtroom who are not associated with the case.

18 MR. DeLAQUIL: That's just fine with us, Your 19 Honor.

20 MR. STEYN: Well, I'm not familiar with practice
21 down here, but it certainly would seem odd up North, so
22 I'm not entirely sure about that, but I'll be guided by 23 Your Lordship's view.

24 THE COURT: Any objection from the Plaintiff?

25 MR. FONTAINE: No.

1 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

2 (Whereupon, bench conference concludes at this
3 time.)

4 THE COURT: So, we're excusing everyone in the 5 courtroom. You may have your lunch break now, as well.
6 Thank you.

7 (Pause in Proceedings.)

8 THE COURT: Unless you are a party to the 9 lawsuit.

10 (Pause in Proceedings.)

11 THE COURT: All right. Mr. DeLaquil.

12 MR. DeLAQUIL: Good afternoon, Your Honor.
13 Defendant Simberg moves for Judgement As A Matter Of Law
14 under Rule 50. We've prepared a written motion that I'm 15 going to circulate to Counsel, Mr. Steyn, and yourself,
16 and we'll E-file it now, as well.

17 THE COURT: All right. Very well. We appreciate 18 that.

19 MR. STEYN: And if I -- if I may be heard, too?

20 THE COURT: Yes.

21 MR. STEYN: We also would like to file under Rule
22 50, is it? A similar Motion For Judgement As a Matter Of 23 Law.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. BARTOLOMUCCI: And, Your Honor, we don't have

1 that printed out copies to distribute. But we're prepared
2 to file a written motion on the docket.

3 And we wondered if it would be appropriate for 4 Mr. Steyn to also make a fairly short oral motion to the 5 Court that tracks the arguments in the written motion?

6 THE COURT: All right. That's acceptable.

7 We'll hear something orally, as well, from 8 Mr. Simberg.

9 MR. DeLAQUIL: Thank you.

10 Your Honor, at this point in the trial --

11 THE COURT: And there will be an opportunity for 12 Plaintiff.

13 MR. DeLAQUIL: Your Honor, at this point --

14 THE COURT: Hold on for a second.

15 (Pause in Proceedings.)

16 THE COURT: First, Plaintiff, you need an 17 opportunity to just look?

18 MR. FONTAINE: Yeah, we'd like to look at it,
19 yup.

20 THE COURT: Should we break for lunch and then
21 return for the brief?

22 MR. DeLAQUIL: That's fine, Your Honor. We'll be 23 guided by your judgement.

24 THE COURT: Well --

25 MR. FONTAINE: Yeah, I think we need a little bit

1 MR. FONTAINE: We're going to respond orally,
2 too.

3 MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I don't know.

4 THE COURT: You'll decide that over lunch.

5 MR. WILLIAMS: Okay. Thank you.

6 (Whereupon, luncheon recess is taken at this
7 time.)

8 (Whereupon, hearing concluded.)

9 CERTIFICATE OF THE REPORTER

10 I, JUANITA NOCK PRICE, REGISTERED PROFESSIONAL
11 REPORTER AND FEDERAL CERTIFIED REALTIME REPORTER, AN
12 OFFICIAL COURT REPORTER FOR THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE
13 DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, DO HEREBY CERTIFY THAT I TRANSCRIBED
14 FROM MACHINE SHORTHAND NOTES THE PROCEEDINGS HAD AND
15 TESTIMONY ADDUCED IN THE CASE OF MICHAEL E. MANN, Ph.D.
16 VERSUS MARK STEYN AND RAND SIMBERG, CIVIL DIVISION, CASE
17 NUMBER 2012 CAB 8263, IN SAID COURT ON THE 31ST DAY OF
18 JANUARY 2024.

19 I FURTHER CERTIFY THAT THE FOREGOING 110 PAGES
20 CONSTITUTE AN OFFICIAL TRANSCRIPT OF SAID PROCEEDINGS AS
21 TRANSCRIBED FROM MY MACHINE SHORTHAND NOTES AND REVIEWED
22 WITH MY BACKUP TAPES, TO THE BEST OF MY ABILITY.

23 IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I HAVE HERETO SUBSCRIBED MY
24 NAME, THIS 31ST DAY OF JANUARY, 2024.

25 OFFICIAL COURT REPORTER

RPR, FCRR

TRIAL TRANSCRIPT
1/31/24 PM
[EXCERPTED]

1 SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

2 CIVIL DIVISION

3 -----x
4 MICHAEL E. MANN, :
5 Plaintiff, :
6 v. : Civil Action Number
7 NATIONAL REVIEW, INC., et al., : 2012-CA-8263(B)
8 Defendants. :
9 -----x

10 Washington, D.C.

11 Wednesday, January 31, 2024

12 The above-entitled action came on for a jury
13 trial before the Honorable Alfred S. Irving, Jr., Associate
14 Judge, in courtroom number 132, commencing at approximately 15 2:08 p.m.

16 THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT
17 OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE
18 COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT
19 IT REPRESENTS TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF
20 THE CASE AS RECORDED.

21 APPEARANCES:

22 On behalf of the Plaintiff:

23 JOHN WILLIAMS, Esquire
24 WILLIAMS LOPATTO PLLC
25 1629 K Street, NW, Suite 300
Washington, D.C. 20006

PETER FONTAINE, Esquire
AMORIE I. HUMMEL, Esquire
COZEN O'CONNOR
One Liberty Place
1650 Market Street Suite 2800
Philadelphia, PA 19103

(Appearances continued on the next page.)

Jurtiana Jeon, CSR, RPR (202) 879-1796
Official Court Reporter

(Continued from the previous page.)

PATRICK COYNE, Esquire.
FINNEGAN, HENDERSON, FARABOW, GARRETT &
DUNNER LLP
901 New York Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20003.

On behalf of the Defendant Simberg:

VICTORIA WEATHERFORD, Esquire
BAKER & HOSTETLER, LLP
Transamerica Pyramid
600 Montgomery Street Suite 3100
San Francisco, CA 94111

MARK W. DeLAQUIL, Esquire
RENEE KNUDSON, Esquire
BAKER & HOSTETLER LLP
1050 Connecticut Avenue, NW Suite 1100
Washington, D.C. 20036

MARK BAILEN, Esquire
1250 Connecticut Avenue, NW Suite 700
Washington, D.C. 20036

On behalf of Defendant Steyn:

H. CHRISTOPHER BARTOLOMUCCI, Esquire
SCHAERR JAFFE LLP
1717 K Street, NW Suite 900
Washington, D.C. 20006

Also present:

Melissa Howes (Power of Attorney for Steyn)

TABLE OF CONTENTSTRIALWITNESSES

On behalf of Defendant Simberg:

ABRAHAM WYNER

Direct examination by Mr. DeLaquil..... 50

EXHIBITS

On behalf of the Plaintiff:_____ Admitted

Number 5..... 48

Number 6..... 48

Number 8..... 48

Number 17..... 48

Number 50..... 48

Number 56..... 48

Number 60..... 48

Number 803..... 48

MISCELLANY

Proceedings, January 31, 2024..... 4

Certificate of Court Reporter..... 87

1 telling statement in his testimony. He said, at the very
2 end -- well, why did you include him later? And he said,
3 well, you know, by that point, the ClimateGate thing had 4 passed by.

5 That was the truth. Now, Mr. Fontaine led him
6 back: Oh, you mean the alleged publications? Oh, yeah, I
7 mean the alleged publications.

8 No, he didn't. It was ClimateGate. Everybody in 9 this room knew it. No reasonable jury could conclude
10 otherwise. And even if they didn't -- even if Mr. Abraham
11 did exclude Dr. Mann, it's not enough for actual injury.
12 Thank you, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

14 Mr. Steyn.

15 MR. STEYN: If I was in almost any other common
16 law country, it would be four words: No case to answer.
17 You do things a little differently here, but it is no case
18 to answer. No jury would have a legally sufficient 19 evidentiary basis to return a verdict in favor of the 20 plaintiff. And I cite your Supreme Court Massie versus 21 Watts, 1810: If this allegation is unsupported by 22 evidence, there is an end of the case.

23 Notwithstanding 12 years to prepare a case,
24 opposing counsel has put on just six witnesses, the three 25 parties, and three, at least initially, expert witnesses on

1 totally irrelevant subjects: Bradley on ice cores; Oreskes
2 on peer review; and Abraham, until he was denied expert
3 status, on investigations. He was hastily shuffled into
4 the role of fact witness, witness to his own unilateral
5 skittishness about the paper that Mr. DeLaquil spoke about.

6 And other than that, not a single fact witness
7 has been produced for anything at issue in this case. And 8 I understand the supermarket encounter. That's the sort of 9 thing that might present a few challenges in finding a
10 witness to support Mr. Mann's version of events. But it
11 would have been the work of moments on almost any aspect of 12 this case to produce, say, someone from Penn State to speak
13 to the alleged decline in Mann's grants and the reason for 14 it.

15 The Court has long had authority to direct a 16 verdict for defendant. This is another Supreme Court case, 17 1913, Slocum versus New York Life: The court has long had 18 to direct a verdict for defendant when it was of opinion
19 that the plaintiff, even if all his evidence be believed,
20 has failed to make out his case.

21 The plaintiff has failed to prove any of the 22 elements of defamation. He has failed to prove that a
23 false statement was made about him. In fact, the so-called 24 statements at issue, as you heard Mr. DeLaquil say, have 25 not even been entered in evidence. So they are not even

1 there for the jury to consider.

2 Dr. Mann has not carried his burden of proof on 3 any of these elements. Suddenly -- Mr. DeLaquil used the 4 word "opinion." My post was not opinion. I stand on the 5 truth of every word. So it was not false. It was not 6 defamatory.

7 There was, in particular, no injury. Everything
8 that has been viable and measurable, such as the W-2s, has 9 gone up. The only thing he claims has gone down, he has 10 produced not a jot or tittle of evidence for other than his 11 flip-pad piece on which he drew a couple of round numbers.
12 That is insufficient to lay before the jury. Where is the 13 evidence of these grants? There was no evidence.

14 And finally, on the most -- the most basic and 15 the most critical charge, the charge of malice --
16 Mr. Williams introduced himself as the malice guy to you a 17 day or two ago. Well, the malice guy hasn't actually
18 entered any evidence of malice as that term is understood 19 by law.

20 There is no -- there is a basic problem with 21 everything he has said between causation and correlation.
22 Even if you accept that, in the supermarket, Mr. Mann got a
23 mean look, there is a huge gulf between Mr. Mann's mean
24 look and two guys writing on the Internet.

25 Even if you accept Mr. Abraham today, there's a

1 huge gulf between some Chinese, Japanese, Australian,
2 German, UK scientist being skittish about getting mixed up
3 with Mann and two posts on the Internet from websites that
4 are unread in China, Japan, Germany.

5 Dr. Mann has provide- -- and it's kind of odd for 6 me to have to face this. We all know -- I think it was the 7 Court of Appeals put it this way, that, you know, roosters
8 crow at dawn; that does not mean the sun comes up because 9 of roosters. We've had a couple of isolated roosters for 10 which there is no connection with the sun.

11 It's not even clear to me that there is any 12 evidence of actual malice to be procured.

13 As you know, I stand on the truth of everything
14 I've said about the Hockey Stick since 2001. You would 15 have to find some evidence that I have been -- well, you
16 would have to present some evidence that I have been just 17 faking it in what I think about the Hockey Stick for a
18 quarter century now.

19 I have never deviated from that stance. What I
20 wrote was true then and I stand by it now. And no contrary
21 evidence has been presented by Michael Mann that I
22 supposedly -- I want to make sure I get the legal language
23 right -- quote, entertained serious doubts about the truth
24 of the statement or, quote, had a high degree of awareness
25 that the statement was probably false.

1 I -- during the course of their case, Mr. Mann
2 abandoned his defamation claim about the second statement
3 in my post. Now I'm talking about the sentence in which I
4 said I wasn't sure I would have extended Mr. Simberg's
5 metaphor quite as far into the locker room showers with the 6 same zeal he did. I wasn't asked a single question about 7 that. Nobody else was.

8 When Michael Mann was on the stand, his counsel
9 elicited no testimony from him about whether this sentence
10 was false or defamatory or injurious. The Court can see
11 that in the January 24th transcript at pages 60 through 63.

12 Mr. Fontaine did not even highlight the "Simberg 13 has a point" sentence when he put my post on the video 14 screen. Thus, that claim as to the second statement in my 15 post is out of the case because he has presented no
16 evidence on it. And this means that the first statement in 17 my post, which is a quotation of Mr. Simberg, is also out,
18 because the second statement, on which I was never asked,
19 was responding to the quoted Simberg quotation.

20 He has abandoned his claim on the "has a point"
21 sentence. He hasn't asked me about it. He hasn't 22 testified about it. No other witness has testified about 23 it. And so it would be quite improper to leave it in and,
24 therefore, improper to ask the jury to find the preceding
25 quotation from Mr. Simberg defamatory.

1 And another thing. He -- he's requested punitive
2 damages, punitive damages for a dirty look in the 3 supermarket for which there is no evidence and for a claim
4 on grants he didn't get for which he has adduced no
5 evidence.

6 He has not proved by clear and convincing
7 evidence that the actual malice standard required by U.S.
8 law has been met and that I acted with, quote,
9 maliciousness, spite, ill will, vengeance, or deliberate
10 intent to harm the plaintiff.

11 I incorporate -- I hereby adopt and incorporate 12 by reference all of my codefendant's arguments in support
13 of judgment as a matter of law. I am aghast at the waste
14 of time and the frivolousness that we've sat through hours
15 on testimony -- of testimony from Ms. Oreskes, from 16 Mr. Mann and from Mr. Abraham on the joys of peer review.
17 That is not what -- and that may be all well, if peer 18 review was the legal standard before this Court, but it's 19 not. It has no legal standing in District of Columbia law
20 or United States law. And under the governing law of 21 defamation, all the stuff about the joys and wonders and 22 delights of peer review can be true and, yet, they have not 23 made the case that they were supposed to make.

24 So I ask this honorable court that our motions
25 for judgment as a matter of law should be granted and that

1 judgment be entered in favor of myself and of my
2 codefendant, Mr. Simberg. Thank you very much.

3 THE COURT: Thank you.

4 Mr. Coyne -- or Mr. Williams.

5 MR. WILLIAMS: Good afternoon, Your Honor. As I
6 indicated before the luncheon break, we will respond in 7 writing to all of this.

8 I will note this, that --

9 THE COURT: I would like at least a preview of 10 what we're going to see in writing so that there is some 11 notion of what your reaction will be --

12 MR. WILLIAMS: Oh, I'll be --

13 THE COURT: -- because I'm --

14 MR. WILLIAMS: -- more than happy, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: -- certain you've envisioned these 16 arguments.

17 MR. WILLIAMS: Oh, yes. Sure. I'll have to get
18 my notebook, because I thought we were going to argue it
19 orally, and I'm happy to do that. Thank you.

20 First of all, let me start by saying, with 21 respect to this suggestion that the defamatory statements
22 are not in the record, they are in the record. They're 23 Exhibit 56, which is The Other Scandal in Unhappy Valley
24 article, and Exhibit 60, which is Football and Hockey.

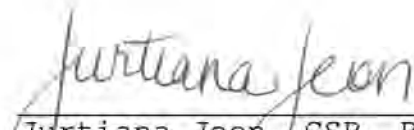

25 Let me, first, address this, Your Honor, which is

CERTIFICATION OF REPORTER

I, Jurtiana Jeon, an Official Court Reporter for the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, do hereby certify that I reported, by machine shorthand, in my official capacity, the proceedings had and testimony adduced upon the jury trial in the case of MICHAEL E. MANN, Ph.D, v. NATIONAL REVIEW, INC., et al., Civil Action Number 2012-CA-8263(B), in said court on the 31st day of January, 2024.

I further certify that the foregoing 86 pages constitute the official transcript of said proceedings, as taken from my machine shorthand notes, together with the backup tape of said proceedings to the best of my ability.

In witness whereof, I have hereto subscribed my name, this the 1st day of February, 2024.

Jurtiana Jeon, CSR, RPR
Official Court Reporter

TRIAL TRANSCRIPT
2/7/24 AM
[EXCERPTED]

1 SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

2 CIVIL DIVISION

3 -----x
4 MICHAEL E. MANN, Ph.D., :
5 Plaintiff, :
6 v. : Civil Action Number
7 NATIONAL REVIEW, INC., et al., : 2012-CA-8263(B)
8 Defendants. :
9 -----x

10 Washington, D.C.

11 Wednesday, February 7, 2024

12 The above-entitled action came on for a jury
13 trial before the Honorable Alfred S. Irving, Jr., Associate
14 Judge, in courtroom number 132, commencing at approximately 15 9:36 a.m.

16 THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT
17 OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE
18 COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT
19 IT REPRESENTS TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF
20 THE CASE AS RECORDED.

21 APPEARANCES:

22 On behalf of the Plaintiff:

23 JOHN WILLIAMS, Esquire
24 WILLIAMS LOPATTO PLLC
25 1629 K Street, NW, Suite 300
Washington, D.C. 20006

PETER FONTAINE, Esquire
AMORIE I. HUMMEL, Esquire
COZEN O'CONNOR
One Liberty Place
1650 Market Street Suite 2800
Philadelphia, PA 19103

(Appearances continued on the next page.)

Jurtiana Jeon, CSR, RPR
Official Court Reporter

(202) 879-1796

(Continued from the previous page.)

PATRICK COYNE, Esquire.
FINNEGAN, HENDERSON, FARABOW, GARRETT &
DUNNER LLP
901 New York Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20003.

On behalf of the Defendant Simberg:

VICTORIA WEATHERFORD, Esquire
BAKER & HOSTETLER, LLP
Transamerica Pyramid
600 Montgomery Street Suite 3100
San Francisco, CA 94111

MARK W. DeLAQUIL, Esquire
RENEE KNUDSON, Esquire
BAKER & HOSTETLER LLP
1050 Connecticut Avenue, NW Suite 1100
Washington, D.C. 20036

MARK BAILEN, Esquire
1250 Connecticut Avenue, NW Suite 700
Washington, D.C. 20036

On behalf of Defendant Steyn:

H. CHRISTOPHER BARTOLOMUCCI, Esquire
SCHAERR JAFFE LLP
1717 K Street, NW Suite 900
Washington, D.C. 20006

Also present:

Melissa Howes (Power of Attorney for Steyn)

TABLE OF CONTENTSTRIALMISCELLANY

Proceedings, February 7, 2024.....	4
Argument on instructions.....	4
Jury instructions.....	55
Certificate of Court Reporter.....	78

1 defense?

2 THE COURT: I don't know if we have separate
3 boxes.

4 MR. WILLIAMS: Or separate -- are they going to 5 be separated in any way?

6 THE COURT: No. They're just going to --

7 MR. WILLIAMS: Only by number?

8 THE COURT: Yes.

9 MR. WILLIAMS: Okay.

10 MR. DELAQUIL: And, Your Honor, we have a full 11 copy of the exhibits -- our exhibits -- for you, printed as 12 well.

13 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

14 Please rise.

15 (Jury present at 9:50 a.m.)

16 THE COURT: Good morning. You may be seated.

17 All right. Defendant Simberg, any additional
18 witnesses?

19 MR. DELAQUIL: Defendant Simberg rests.

20 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

21 And, Mr. Steyn?

22 MR. STEYN: Defendant Steyn rests and restates
23 for the record that there is no case to answer and renews
24 our motion --

25 THE COURT: Hold on. Hold on.

1 MR. STEYN: -- under rule --

2 THE COURT: No, no, no. Hold on.

3 MR. STEYN: Okay. Pardon, my lord. I'll save
4 that for later.

5 THE COURT: Yes.

6 MR. STEYN: Thank you. Defendant Steyn rests.
7 Disregard. The rest is stricken.

8 Pardon me, I didn't mean to do self-judging
9 either.

10 MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, we don't feel we need
11 to put on a rebuttal case, so we'll waive any rebuttal
12 case.

13 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

14 So, members of the jury, we're going to try to 15 get the case to you as soon as possible. So this is what's 16 going to happen going forward. There are some matters that 17 the parties and the Court must discuss that's going to take 18 us a little while. Likely, an hour. And so when you
19 return, I will read you the instructions -- final 20 instructions for this case setting forth the law that you
21 will apply to the facts that you have received. That will 22 take about 25 minutes. And then plaintiff will present
23 closing arguments, about 45 minutes. Defendant Simberg
24 will present 45 minutes in closing. Mr. Steyn will present
25 45 minutes in closing arguments. And then plaintiff will

1 return to you with 15 minutes of rebuttal. And then we'll
2 collect the documents and the like and submit the case to 3 you.

4 All right? So that's the schedule for today.
5 And then your deliberations will begin. All right. So
6 please -- we'll call you in about an hour.

7 (Jury out at 9:52 a.m.)

8 THE COURT: All right. You may be seated. So
9 there's a few outstanding motions, and there were pleadings
10 that came in at about 2:00 a.m. this morning.

11 MR. WILLIAMS: They did, Your Honor.

12 MR. DELAQUIL: Your Honor, for the record, we 13 would like to renew our rule 50 motion. Unless the Court
14 is -- would like to hear argument, I was simply going to 15 renew at this point.

16 THE COURT: All right. Very well. Then renew is 17 sufficient.

18 MR. STEYN: And likewise, Defendant Steyn would 19 also wish to renew his motion under rule --

20 MR. BARTOLOMUCCI: 50.

21 MR. STEYN: -- 50.

22 THE COURT: All right. And the Court will take 23 both under advisement.

24 MR. DELAQUIL: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 MR. WILLIAMS: And obviously we oppose, and have

1 The instructions I give you govern the case as to
2 each defendant to the same effect as if that defendant were
3 the only one in the lawsuit. If you should find that no
4 defendant is liable to the plaintiff, then your verdict
5 should be in favor of all defendants against the plaintiff.

6 If you should find that only one of the 7 defendants is liable to the plaintiff, then your verdict
8 should be in favor of the plaintiff and against only that 9 defendant you found liable.

10 NOMINAL DAMAGES

11 If you find the defendants liable and you find 12 that there are no proven damages resulting or that the 13 damages are only speculative, then you may award nominal
14 damages to the plaintiff. Nominal damages are small -- are 15 a small amount of money, such as $1, awarded without regard
16 to the amount of loss.

17 DAMAGES JURY TO AWARD

18 If you find for plaintiff, then you must decide
19 what amount of money will fairly and reasonably compensate
20 him for the harm that you find was caused by each 21 defendant. When you hear the term "damages" in these 22 instructions, that term refers to the amount of money you
23 may decide to award the plaintiff as I have described.

24 When I refer to damages, I do not mean to suggest 25 that you should decide for or against any party on any

1 the effects of his or her republication.

2 COMPENSATORY DAMAGES

3 If the plaintiff has demonstrated that he
4 sustained actual injury as a direct result of the 5 publication of a defamatory statement, then you should
6 award the plaintiff compensatory damages. You should award
7 a sum of money that compensates, number one, for any injury
8 to the plaintiff's good name and reputation; two, for any 9 mental anguish, distress, and humiliation; and, three, for 10 any economic or monetary loss that the plaintiff suffered
11 as a result. You are not to return a separate sum for each
12 element that I have mentioned; rather, you should consider 13 all of the elements to arrive at a single amount of 14 compensatory damages.

15 PUNITIVE DAMAGES

16 The plaintiff is seeking punitive damages for 17 libel in this case. Punitive damages are not intended to 18 compensate an injured plaintiff; rather, the law permits a 19 jury in a civil case to assess punitive damages against a
20 defendant as punishment for outrageous conduct and to deter
21 others from engaging in that kind of conduct.

22 You may award punitive damages against the 23 defendant in this case only if the plaintiff has proved by 24 clear and convincing evidence that both of these two 25 conditions are true: One, the defendant published a

1 defamatory statement with knowledge that the statement was
2 false or with reckless disregard of whether it was false or 3 not; and, two, the defendant's conduct in publishing a 4 defamatory statement showed maliciousness, spite, ill will,
5 vengeance, or deliberate intent to harm the plaintiff. If 6 you find both of these conditions are true, then you have 7 the option of assessing punitive damages against the 8 defendant.

9 The law does not require you to assess punitive
10 damages. If you decide to assess punitive damages, the 11 amount of such damages is left to your good judgment.

12 Computation of punitive damage award. If you
13 find that the plaintiff is entitled to an award of punitive 14 damages, then you must decide the amount of the award. To 15 determine the amount of the award, you may consider the net
16 worth of the defendant at the time of trial, the nature of 17 the wrong committed, the state of mind of the defendant
18 when the wrong was committed, the cost and duration of the 19 litigation, and any attorney's fees the plaintiff has 20 incurred in this case.

21 Your award should be sufficient to punish the 22 defendant for his or her conduct and to serve as an example
23 to prevent others from acting in a similar way.

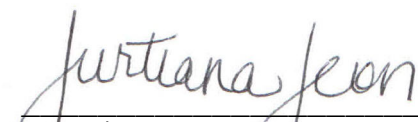

24 Those are the instructions. Any questions from 25 the lawyers?

CERTIFICATION OF REPORTER

I, Jurtiana Jeon, an Official Court Reporter for the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, do hereby certify that I reported, by machine shorthand, in my official capacity, the proceedings had and testimony adduced upon the jury trial in the case of MICHAEL E. MANN, Ph.D., v. NATIONAL REVIEW, INC., et al., Civil Action Number 2012-CAB-8263, in said court on the 7th day of February, 2024.

I further certify that the foregoing 77 pages constitute the official transcript of said proceedings, as taken from my machine shorthand notes, together with the backup tape of said proceedings to the best of my ability.

In witness whereof, I have hereto subscribed my name, this the 8th day of February, 2024.

Jurtiana Jeon, CSR, RPR
Official Court Reporter

TRIAL TRANSCRIPT
2/8/24
[EXCERPTED]

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

-----x
:
MICHAEL E. MANN, Ph.D., :
:
Plaintiff, :
:
v. : Civil Action Number
:
NATIONAL REVIEW, INC., et al., : 2012-CA-8263(B)
:
Defendants. :
-----x

Washington, D.C.

Thursday, February 8, 2024

The above-entitled action came on for a jury trial before the Honorable Alfred S. Irving, Jr., Associate Judge, in courtroom number 132, commencing at approximately 4:30 p.m.

THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

APPEARANCES:

On behalf of the Plaintiff:

JOHN WILLIAMS, Esquire
WILLIAMS LOPATTO PLLC
1629 K Street, NW, Suite 300
Washington, D.C. 20006

PETER FONTAINE, Esquire
AMORIE I. HUMMEL, Esquire
COZEN O'CONNOR
One Liberty Place
1650 Market Street Suite 2800
Philadelphia, PA 19103

(Appearances continued on the next page.)

Jurtiana Jeon, CSR, RPR
Official Court Reporter

(202) 879-1796

(Continued from the previous page.)

PATRICK COYNE, Esquire.
FINNEGAN, HENDERSON, FARABOW, GARRETT &
DUNNER LLP
901 New York Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20003.

On behalf of the Defendant Simberg:

VICTORIA WEATHERFORD, Esquire
BAKER & HOSTETLER, LLP
Transamerica Pyramid
600 Montgomery Street Suite 3100
San Francisco, CA 94111

MARK W. DeLAQUIL, Esquire
RENEE KNUDSON, Esquire
BAKER & HOSTETLER LLP
1050 Connecticut Avenue, NW Suite 1100
Washington, D.C. 20036

MARK BAILEN, Esquire
1250 Connecticut Avenue, NW Suite 700
Washington, D.C. 20036

On behalf of Defendant Steyn:

H. CHRISTOPHER BARTOLOMUCCI, Esquire
SCHAERR JAFFE LLP
1717 K Street, NW Suite 900
Washington, D.C. 20006

Also present:

Melissa Howes (Power of Attorney for Steyn)

TABLE OF CONTENTSTRIALMISCELLANY

Proceedings, February 8, 2024.....	4
Verdict.....	5
Polling of the jury.....	11
Certificate of Court Reporter.....	15

1 a high degree of awareness that the statement was probably
2 false.

3 THE FOREPERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: All right. For each statement from 5 I(A) (4) that you found defamatory, relied on provably false
6 facts, was false, and was made with either knowledge of 7 falsity or reckless disregard for whether the fact was 8 false, do you find that, for any one of them, plaintiff
9 proved by a preponderance of the evidence that plaintiff
10 suffered actual damage -- I'm sorry -- suffered actual 11 injury as a result of the statement written or quoted by 12 Defendant Simberg?

13 THE FOREPERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: All right. If you answered yes to 15 question I(A) (5), please identify which statements by 16 Defendant Simberg (listed as "a" through "d" above), for 17 which you answered yes to all of the above questions in 18 this section I(A).

19 Did you do that?

20 THE FOREPERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: And what were they?

22 THE FOREPERSON: Statement "c" and statement "d."

23 THE COURT: All right. As to damages --
24 compensatory damages, number 1, what amount of compensatory
25 damages do you award to plaintiff against Defendant Simberg

1 for damages resulting from the statements for which you
2 answered yes to the question in I(A)?

3 THE FOREPERSON: $1.

4 THE COURT: All right. And punitive damages. Do
5 you find that plaintiff has proved by clear and convincing
6 evidence that Defendant Simberg's conduct in publishing his 7 July 13, 2012, post showed maliciousness, spite, ill will,
8 vengeance, or deliberate intent to harm plaintiff?

9 THE FOREPERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: All right. What amount of punitive
11 damages do you award to plaintiff against Defendant
12 Simberg?

13 THE FOREPERSON: $1,000.

14 THE COURT: All right. Now, as to defendant Mark
15 Steyn, question number 1: Do you find that plaintiff has 16 proved by a preponderance of the evidence that one or more
17 of the above statements for [sic] Defendant Steyn's
18 July 15, 2012, post was defamatory or had a defamatory
19 implication that was intended by Mr. Steyn?

20 THE FOREPERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Number 2. For each statement from 22 II(A) (1) that you found defamatory, do you find that, for 23 any one of them, plaintiff has proved by a preponderance of 24 the evidence that the defamatory meaning conveyed by 25 Defendant Steyn's statement or statements asserted or

1 THE FOREPERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: All right. And number 5. For each
3 statement from II(A)(4) that you found defamatory, relied 4 on provably false facts, was false, and was made with 5 either knowledge of falsity or reckless disregard for 6 whether the fact was false, do you find that, for any one
7 of them, plaintiff proved by a preponderance of the 8 evidence that plaintiff suffered actual injury as a result
9 of the statement written or quoted by Defendant Steyn?

10 THE FOREPERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: And if you answered yes -- and you
12 did, please identify which statements by Defendant Steyn
13 (listed as "a" through "c" above), for which you answered
14 yes to all of the above questions in section II(A), and 15 then proceed to -- please state the statements.

16 THE FOREPERSON: Statement "a" and statement "c."

17 THE COURT: All right. And compensatory damages.
18 What amount of compensatory damages do you award to 19 plaintiff against Defendant Steyn for damages resulting 20 from the statements for which you answered yes to the 21 questions in I(A) [sic]?

22 THE FOREPERSON: $1.

23 THE COURT: All right. And for punitive damages.
24 Do you find that plaintiff has proved by clear and 25 convincing evidence that Defendant Steyn's conduct in

1 publishing his July 15, 2012, post showed maliciousness,
2 spite, ill will, vengeance, or deliberate intent to harm
3 plaintiff?

4 THE FOREPERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: What amount of punitive damages do
6 you award to plaintiff against Defendant Steyn?

7 THE FOREPERSON: $1 million.

8 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may be 9 seated.

10 Hushers.

11 (Whereupon, a sealed bench conference was taken
12 but not transcribed.)

13 THE COURT: All right. Before I let you go, I am 14 going to poll each one of you to determine whether you are 15 in agreement with the verdict. And as I call you from seat
16 closest to the bench to the far end, please state your 17 juror number and then answer the question whether you agree
18 with the verdict yes or no. So --

19 JUROR #931: Step up to the mic?

20 THE COURT: Yes. State your juror number once
21 more, sir.

22 JUROR #931: Juror Number 931.

23 THE COURT: All right. And do you agree with the 24 verdict?

25 JUROR #931: Yes, Your Honor.

CERTIFICATION OF REPORTER

I, Jurtiana Jeon, an Official Court Reporter for the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, do hereby certify that I reported, by machine shorthand, in my official capacity, the proceedings had and testimony adduced upon the jury trial in the case of MICHAEL E. MANN, Ph.D., v. NATIONAL REVIEW, INC., et al., Civil Action Number 2012-CA-8263(B), in said court on the 8th day of February, 2024.

I further certify that the foregoing 15 pages constitute the official transcript of said proceedings, as taken from my machine shorthand notes, together with the backup tape of said proceedings to the best of my ability.

In witness whereof, I have hereto subscribed my name, this the 8th day of February, 2024.

Jurtiana Jeon, CSR, RPR
Official Court Reporter